IT WAS A SCORCHER

The Address Last Night at the Rink.

HELP SAVE THE WEAKLINGS

Woolley Was Greeted by a Splendid Audience—He is a Wonderful Power in Oratory, Argument and Pen Pictures, and Was Frequently Interrupted by Hearty Applause—He Makes Easy Going Christians.

The third lecture given by John G. Woolley at the Fifth street rink was unusually well attended, a large number of Wellsville people being present. The rink was a little too cold for comfort, but the audience didn't seem to mind it, and listened with rapt attention to the speaker's forcible arguments for the cause of temperance.

The meeting was opened with music by a double quartet, composed of four male and four female voices, after which the male quartet favored the audience with a delightful selection. Reverend Huffer then led in earnest prayer, calling on God to exterminate the curse of drink from our fair land, and praying that men might learn to vote as they pray, and to hasten the day when there shall be no saloons in the country.

Reverend Whitehead then stated that word had been received from that place would be here tomorrow night to attend the lecture. He then gave the history of the song "Weak Backbone," and the quartet rendered it in a pleasing manner, being heartily applauded. Reverend Whitehead then said he thought the speaker needed no formal introduction, but that he wanted to express his personal thanks to him for his great kindness in filling up the gap yesterday afternoon, owing to Mr. Small being unable to keep his engagement in this city.

Woolley started his address by stating that his text was found somewhere in Deuteronomy, and quoted these words: "When thou buildest a new house then thou shalt make a battlement for the roof, that thou bring not blood upon thy house if any man fall from thence."

He opened his address by stating that some people say: "If people don't want to be hurt by falling from my roof let them keep off of it," and if they come across a drunken man whose steps are not as straight as they should be they say: "If a man will drink let him drink," but it is the word of God, if this Bible of ours can be trusted, that we should build a better house, one with battlement around it. He also stated that this passage of scripture was the best statement of Christian negligence that can be heard from the lips of any statesman or found in any book of the present day.

The speaker then quoted from the Declaration of Independence, and stated that everyone, if not familiar with it, should become so at once. He said "that we had a fundamental law to constitute equality, and that the liquor traffic is the foe of equality." The speaker waxed eloquent and said: "American labor limps on in its struggles with capital, and it is mainly due to drink. Give us sober, industrious workmen, and they won't need any soft-handed politician to see that they get their rights. They talk about protective tariff; no protective tariff will advance the country as fast, as a protective tariff saloon will degenerate it. I believe in workmen having decent work to do and honest pay for their work. [Applause.] Abolish the saloons and saloon drug stores. Fully 95 per cent of the people are in close proximity with the saloons themselves. This is not a labor meeting and I am not here to make a labor speech. Let the laboring man take care of himself. They speak of the race problem in the south. It is a perfectly unsolvable problem in the alcoholic country we have today, and is caused by the same old fashioned drink curse. Abolish the drink in the south and start free schools down there, and give the colored man a white mind, and these troubles will cease.

It is estimated by statisticians that 2,500 babies are killed annually by drunken fathers and mothers overlaying them, and two-thirds of these are killed on Saturday night, and yet these babies are all protected by a Christian government. Who looks out for the drunkards' mothers and wives?

When in a western city some time ago, while waiting for my train, I walked around the block and into the morgue, and in the corner was a clothes basket filled with little babies that had been gathered up in the drunken hovels of that city the previous night. Who takes care of them in this Christian government? The speaker here gave several incidents, and said: I love to think of this Christian government of ours as a colossal storage battery, which will pay it out as it is needed."

He then went after the saloons in a forcible manner, and said: "I suppose you will accuse me of being a pessimist. I am not pessimistic, but rather optimistic, but I am so full of victory for the Women's Christian Temperance union, Young People's societies and Prohibition party that I cannot help speaking in this manner. I expect to live to put my own foot on the throat of this curse. [Applause.] I expect to live to see the day when there shall be no licensed saloons under the stars and stripes. I see that the president took steps to protect the babies from this curse in Central Africa and hoped that some Christian president would do the same for the children of his own land. [Applause.]

"There are 1,000,000 of drunkards, by a conservative estimate, tonight, and these drunkards beget as many children as anyone else. Do you know there were 100,000 epileptic babies born in the past year, and 130,000 blind, deaf and dumb born during the same 12 months. The government should adopt a statutory prayer: 'God be merciful to me, a fool.' If the last congress had done this they would have done something."

The speaker then told a heart-rending story of a young couple, the truth of which he could vouch for, as he stood on the scaffold with the young husband, who had killed his beloved wife in the midst of their honeymoon while under the influence of liquor.

"I am here in the name of 1,000,000 drunkards, and for their mothers, wives and children."

"We should not leave dirty politics to cleanse themselves. They can be cleansed next Monday if the Christian manhood can be made to vote right. Our hope lies in the Christian young men. I am afraid the old men will have to go to heaven to find out whether they are worshipping God or a party."

The audience was then dismissed with the benediction.

ORATOR WOOLLEY.

He is Indeed a Wonderful Man—His Defense of Humanity.

EDITOR NEWS REVIEW—I was delighted and held spell bound by this man's magnificent address last night. He dealt in plain truths and facts, and made them speak as tongues of cloven fire. He believes in Christian workers. He does not believe in talkers and not doers. He believes that Almighty God has given unto the churches and to Christian men and women the power to save this nation for Christ, and he believes that true Christians will vote for the uplifting of common humanity, the protection of helpless babes and suffering women, and the protection of those men who, by hereditary taint in their blood, are unable to take care of themselves. He believes that it is the duty of the strong to protect the weak. He is the hot opponent of the infamous liquor traffic, and terms it the chief agent of the devil for the destruction of human souls, and his belief is shared by every true Christian man and woman in East Liverpool. He is a wonderful power, under God, and every lover of human kind should hear him. The rink should be packed tonight.

A NEW DEPARTURE.

No More Common Drunks Will Be Piloted Home.

Heretofore it has been the custom of our local policemen to send common drunks, found on the streets late at night, to their respective homes, but a new order of procedure has been adopted, and all persons under the influence of intoxicants will be locked up. Allowing them to go home has established a bad precedent, and as they are not afraid of arrest, are eventually found on the streets in the same condition. The police have come to the conclusion that the city is more entitled to their money than the saloonists, and will act accordingly. They think a few arrests will have a tendency to stop considerable drunkenness.

At St. Aloysius.

Rev. W. F. Kieff, of Cleveland, preached to a large audience at St. Aloysius' church last evening, and his hearers were highly gratified. He preached again tonight, taking as his subject, "Christ Before Pilate."

THE MCKINLEY CLUB

Met Last Night and Talked Matters Over.

SEVERAL NEW MEMBERS ADDED

The St. Louis Convention Committee Report Excellent Progress—A Good Attendance at the Meeting—Resolutions Passed.

The McKinley club met in their rooms on Fifth street last night and transacted considerable business.

The St. Louis committee reported good progress in their efforts to add to their delegation to the national convention. Twenty-six new names have been secured for the trip, and the committee say that those who are contemplating going will do well to secure berths at once, as there are but few left.

A vote of thanks was tendered to A. W. Stevenson for services rendered; also to a local furniture dealer for a beautiful frame furnished for McKinley's portrait.

Five new members were added to the club. The following resolutions were submitted and passed:

WHEREAS, We, the members of the McKinley club, are true blue Republicans, and believe that, for the success of the great principles we advocate, it is necessary to elect Republicans for every office from town master to president, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of this club, use every effort to elect every Republican candidate on the municipal, school and township ticket at the election Monday, April 6.

ENTERPRISE.

The County Tickets Printed at the News Review Office.

For years past the county tickets have been printed at Salem, until the job seemed to be a fixture there, no one else in the county bidding on it, as it required a bond of $500, and was supposed to be such an intricate piece of work, and to be turned out in such a short time after being contracted for, that the other job offices dreaded to tackle it, and therefore let it severely alone. The News REVIEW entered the field this year, however, to the surprise of the former single entry, and the bid to the county was $49 less on the part of the REVIEW. But seven days time was given, after copy was furnished, to complete the great mass of tickets, with multitudinous changes in the makeup. But Foreman U. G. King, in control of the job department, was equal to the occasion, and the tickets reached Lisbon on time, in first class condition, were carefully inspected and pronounced all right, without a single error or mistake, unless the mistake was made in the copy furnished. The job was not taken merely as an advertisement, but on sound business principles, with a fair margin upon investment, and the management of the News REVIEW takes just pride in the completion of the work, and in the fact that this establishment employs first class workmen at first class wages.

FROM OVER THE SEA.

John Bull is Looking Forward to Bright Trade.

The London Pottery Gazette has the following to say in regard to trade with the United States.

Trade with the United States appears to be falling off, judging by the reports of several firms depending chiefly upon that country. Whether this is the result of the Venezuelan difficulty, or is merely a temporary lull from natural causes, is not certain, but it is not the time of the year at which American orders should be slackening. It is announced that the latest tariff bill, which threatened an increase in the duties on our goods, has been rejected by the senate, but as it does not seem to have been expected to pass, the interest taken in it over here, at least, has been very slight. The prospects of an amicable settlement of the dispute are very promising, so that there is every reason to look forward to a good year's trade with our transatlantic customers.

WERE FOOLED.

The Freeze-Out Crowd Are Left Out of It.

The freeze-out crowd thought they would play the joke on one of their lady friends last night, and accordingly, in company with a young Sixth street druggist, started for the home of the young lady, who lives on West Market street, but the boys were surprised to find that the young lady or her company were not at home, the young lady having discovered in some way that they were coming. While on their way home one of the young ladies in the party lost a boa, which she had wrapped about her neck, and now she says it is nothing more than retribution. It is safe to say that the freeze-out people were sufficiently frozen last night before they got home.

KIND WORDS.

A Traveler of Wide Experience Compliments the News Review.

This morning George H. Owen came into the News Review office, accompanied by Mr. A. N. Evans, special agent for the Rhode Island Underwriter's association, of Providence, R. I. Introduced the gentleman to the manager and asked permission to show him through the establishment. Mr. Evans made a careful inspection of the entire plant, and was very much pleased, and indeed delighted, as he expressed himself as follows, permitting us to publish his kind words:

"I am delighted with your printing establishment, and I consider myself a judge, as I am a practical printer. I have traveled for years in the line of my present occupation, and have visited and inspected very many printing establishments, and I can truly say that your establishment is the best regulated, from points of cleanliness and precautions against fire I have ever inspected, while I understand that your presses and motive power are as near perfection as possible. You have a right, sir, to be proud of your plant."

H. L. Simms is Now in the Employ of the C. D. & F.

H. L. Simms has dropped the Phoenix telephone company's local project and accepted a position with the Central District and Printing company. He was an untiring worker for the Phoenix company, and had secured a large list of subscribers. After the company had received a franchise from the city it was found that the concern were unable to construct their system, and endeavored to have a number of local capitalists take stock in order to push the project. They were unsuccessful in this and were compelled to drop the matter. Mr. Simms then broached the subject to other telephone people, but none seemed willing to make the venture, fearing the great Bell company. He turned over his list of subscribers to the Central District and Printing company and is now in their employ.

WILL BE UNIQUE.

The Arrangement of the Pullman for the St. Louis Trip.

The Pullman sleeper which is to convey the McKinley club delegation to the national convention at St. Louis will be unique as well as beautiful. On each panel on the sides of the car will be attached a piece of ware of special design on which will be inscribed the name of a pottery, every factory in the city being represented. All the decorations will be so designed that it will only take a short time to attach them to the car. The "china car" will attract universal attention and do credit to the busy city it represents. The McKinley boys are hustling, and not a stone will be left unturned to make the trip a success.

MANY COME HERE.

A Large Number of Families Moved to This Place Recently.

A fact that is worthy of being given prominence, is the large number of accessions to the population of the city that has taken place recently. The adjacent towns have contributed largely, and many people who lived in these places have located in this city.

The arrivals here greatly outnumber those departing, and it is evident that East Liverpool as an industrial center is not in as dormant condition as many other cities of a like size.

Somewhat Improved.

Peter Devlin, of Sixth street, is somewhat improved today and his daughter, Miss Kate Devlin, who is in a convent in Cleveland, left for that place yesterday. She was accompanied by Miss Carrie Hilbert, who was home on a short vacation.

RECOVERED A BUNDLE

A Package of Valuable Silks Thrown From a Train.

NO TRACE OF THE BURGLARS

Manager Beymer Left This Morning for Industry and Returned With a Part of the Stolen Goods—It is Thought that the Robbers Left the Train at that Place.

So far there has been no clue discovered that will lead to the capture of the burglars who robbed the People's store yesterday morning. It is known that the robbers left on the 5 o'clock train.

Mr. Porter received a telegram from Industry last night that a package of silks had been found three-quarters of a mile this side of that village. Manager Beymer was sent this morning to Industry where he identified the silks as part of those stolen from the store. The theory is advanced that the burglars had more goods than they could handle, and as it is dawn when the train arrives at Industry, were afraid of discovery, and threw one of the bundles from the train, intending to return for it. It is thought they left the train at Industry and took to the country. The bundle recovered is valued at $200.

A man was arrested at West Bridge-water yesterday, who was selling dress patterns, but had no trouble in proving an alibi, and was released.

Another rumor is current on the street that the burglars have been captured at Akron, but is without foundation.

LISBON NEWS.

What is Being Done at the County Seat.

LISBON, April 3.—The litigation which was begun some time ago in Squire Rose's court, of East Liverpool, to recover possession of a guitar was brought on appeal to common pleas court this morning. M. M. Coates filed the action, against A. W. Scott, to recover possession of the instrument which he claims is rightfully his.

Probate court held an inquest in lunacy on Mrs. Anna Wyss, at her home in Knox township yesterday, and application was made for admission to Newburg.

A warrant was issued to Sheriff Gill to again convey Mrs. Susan Huston, of East Liverpool, to the asylum.

John P. Neill, a prominent Elk Run farmer, filed a deed of assignment in probate this morning to D. W. Firestone, of Lisbon.

Suit was brought by John M. Stratton to vacate a 14-foot alley in Rebecca Boone's addition to Salem. Stratton is the owner of two lots in this addition, and claims that it would be to the city's interest to have the alley closed.

Marriage licenses were issued to Charles Lutes and Elizabeth Jalley, of Lisbon, and J. C. Stevenson and Rebecca Rupp, residence unknown.

THE VOTING LAW.

Information Concerning People of Foreign Birth.

For the benefit of persons of foreign birth who are not conversant with the voting laws, we publish the following: Any young man under the age of 18 years who comes to this country, and whose father has been naturalized, can vote, upon attaining the legal age. Any young man who comes to this country under the age of 18 years, and whose father has not been naturalized, cannot vote on reaching his majority, but must be a resident of the states for five years, and can then be naturalized by taking out one set of papers. Any person over the age of 18 years must reside in the states five years and take out three sets of papers before he can vote.

We understand that the same rule controls for male and female, the latter, of course, only voting on the school board question in this state.

MEET TOMORROW NIGHT.

The Poultry Association Will Hold Their Annual Meeting.

The Tri-State Poultry and Pet Stock Association will meet in city hall tomorrow evening. As the association holds their regular meetings annually, a great volume of business will be transacted. New officers will be installed and at once assume the management of affairs. Members from Pennsylvania and West Virginia will be present, and a large gathering is expected. The meetings prove very profitable to the members, and are always looked forward to with bright anticipations. A large number of new members will be initiated, and the business of the past year closed up.

The Freeze-Out Crowd Are Left Out of It.

The freeze-out crowd thought they would play the joke on one of their lady friends last night, and accordingly, in company with a young Sixth street druggist, started for the home of the young lady, who lives on West Market street, but the boys were surprised to find that the young lady or her company were not at home, the young lady having discovered in some way that they were coming. While on their way home one of the young ladies in the party lost a boa, which she had wrapped about her neck, and now she says it is nothing more than retribution. It is safe to say that the freeze-out people were sufficiently frozen last night before they got home.

KIND WORDS.

A Traveler of Wide Experience Compliments the News Review.

This morning George H. Owen came into the NEWS REVIEW office, accompanied by Mr. A. N. Evans, special agent for the Rhode Island Underwriter's association, of Providence, R. I., introduced the gentleman to the manager and asked permission to show him through the establishment. Mr. Evans made a careful inspection of the entire plant, and was very much pleased, and indeed delighted, as he expressed himself as follows, permitting us to publish his kind words:

"I am delighted with your printing establishment, and I consider myself a judge, as I am a practical printer. I have traveled for years in the line of my present occupation, and have visited and inspected very many printing establishments, and I can truly say that your establishment is the best regulated, from points of cleanliness and precautions against fire I have ever inspected, while I understand that your presses and motive power are as near perfection as possible. You have a right, sir, to be proud of your plant."

H. L. Simms is Now in the Employ of the C. D. & P.

H. L. Simms has dropped the Phoenix telephone company's local project and accepted a position with the Central District and Printing company. He was an untiring worker for the Phoenix company, and had secured a large list of subscribers. After the company had received a franchise from the city it was found that the concern were unable to construct their system, and endeavored to have a number of local capitalists take stock in order to push the project. They were unsuccessful in this and were compelled to drop the matter. Mr. Simms then broached the subject to other telephone people, but none seemed willing to make the venture, fearing the great Bell company. He turned over his list of subscribers to the Central District and Printing company and is now in their employ.

WILL BE UNIQUE.

The Arrangement of the Pullman for the St. Louis Trip.

The Pullman sleeper which is to convey the McKinley club delegation to the national convention at St. Louis will be unique as well as beautiful. On each panel on the sides of the car will be attached a piece of ware of special design on which will be inscribed the name of a pottery, every factory in the city being represented. All the decorations will be so designed that it will only take a short time to attach them to the car. The "china car" will attract universal attention and do credit to the busy city it represents. The McKinley boys are hustling, and not a stone will be left unturned to make the trip a success.

MANY COME HERE.

A Large Number of Families Moved to This Place Recently.

A fact that is worthy of being given prominence, is the large number of accessions to the population of the city that has taken place recently. The adjacent towns have contributed largely, and many people who lived in these places have located in this city.

The arrivals here greatly outnumber those departing, and it is evident that East Liverpool as an industrial center is not in as dormant condition as many other cities of a like size.

Somewhat Improved.

Peter Devlin, of Sixth street, is somewhat improved today and his daughter, Miss Kate Devlin, who is in a convent in Cleveland, left for that place yesterday. She was accompanied by Miss Carrie Hilbert, who was home on a short vacation.

RECOVERED A BUNDLE

A Package of Valuable Silks Thrown From a Train.

NO TRACE OF THE BURGLARS

Manager Beymer Left this Morning for Industry and Returned With a Part of the Stolen Goods—It is Thought that the Robbers Left the Train at that Place.

So far there has been no clue discovered that will lead to the capture of the burglars who robbed the People's store yesterday morning. It is known that the robbers left on the 5 o'clock train.

Mr. Porter received a telegram from Industry last night that a package of silks had been found three-quarters of a mile this side of that village. Manager Beymer was sent this morning to Industry where he identified the silks as part of those stolen from the store. The theory is advanced that the burglars had more goods than they could handle, and as it is dawn when the train arrives at Industry, were afraid of discovery, and threw one of the bundles from the train, intending to return for it. It is thought they left the train at Industry and took to the country. The bundle recovered is valued at $200.

A man was arrested at West Bridge-water yesterday, who was selling dress patterns, but had no trouble in proving an alibi, and was released.

Another rumor is current on the street that the burglars have been captured at Akron, but is without foundation.

LISBON NEWS.

What is Being Done at the County Seat.

LISBON, April 3.—The litigation which was begun some time ago in Squire Rose's court, of East Liverpool, to recover possession of a guitar was brought on appeal to common pleas court this morning. M. M. Coates filed the action, against A. W. Scott, to recover possession of the instrument which he claims is rightfully his.

Probate court held an inquest in lunacy on Mrs. Anna Wyss, at her home in Knox township yesterday, and application was made for admission to Newburg.

A warrant was issued to Sheriff Gill to again convey Mrs. Susan Huston, of East Liverpool, to the asylum. John P. Neill, a prominent Elk Run farmer, filed a deed of assignment in probate this morning to D. W. Firestone, of Lisbon.

Suit was brought by John M. Stratton to vacate a 14-foot alley in Rebecca Boone's addition to Salem. Stratton is the owner of two lots in this addition, and claims that it would be to the city's interest to have the alley closed.

Marriage licenses were issued to Charles Lutes and Elizabeth Jolley, of Lisbon, and J. C. Stevenson and Rebecca Rupp, residence unknown.

THE VOTING LAW.

Information Concerning People of Foreign Birth.

For the benefit of persons of foreign birth who are not conversant with the voting laws, we publish the following: Any young man under the age of 18 years who comes to this country, and whose father has been naturalized, can vote, upon attaining the legal age. Any young man who comes to this country under the age of 18 years, and whose father has not been naturalized, cannot vote on reaching his majority, but must be a resident of the states for five years, and can then be naturalized by taking out one set of papers. Any person over the age of 18 years must reside in the states five years and take out three sets of papers before he can vote.

New officers will be installed and at once assume the management of affairs. Members from Pennsylvania and West Virginia will be present, and a large gathering is expected. The meetings prove very profitable to the members, and are always looked forward to with bright anticipations. A large number of new members will be initiated, and the business of the past year closed up.

BIBLE BOARD.

Don't puzzle or worry about legal questions. Vote for the men and women who are squarely in favor of the Bible and its reading in the public schools, at the opening of school each morning. Place these men and women in power, and let the "No Bible" voters and their candidates do the worrying. Let these latter ones test the matter when that point is reached. The eyes of the nation are on East Liverpool.

THIRD WARD.

Third ward voters, don't trade under any circumstances. Do your duty and leave the result in the hands of God. Vote straight for Mrs. Jessie M. Whitehead and A. Murray Nickle. The reading of the Bible in our public schools means better city government, better boys and girls, better men and women; and, best of all, it means God's blessing on those who thus honor him. Vote straight. Don't cast a ballot for either John N. Taylor or Will L. Smith. Do your duty.

HERE THEY ARE!

Every candidate for the position of school director, either on the Republican or Prohibition tickets, with the exception of John N. Taylor, Will L. Smith and Mrs. Calhoun, is obligated to use all honorable and legal measures to have the Bible read in the public schools of East Liverpool each and every morning school is in session, by each and every teacher, to the pupils in attendance. This is a plain statement of fact, and we can do no vouch for the truth of the statement.

THE REST WITH GOD.

Do your duty. Vote for Bible advocates. Vote for opening of schools with a selection of God's word. Let injunctions be got out. Bible lovers will always conform with law. If the law says the Bible shall not be read in the public schools, Christians will obey that law until, by their ballots, they reverse the law. Do your duty. Vote for Bible candidates, ask God's blessing on the ballot, and leave the rest with the Ruler of heaven and earth. He makes no mistakes.

HOT REPLY TO CHANDLER.

Putney Says New Hampshire Will Eventually Line Up For McKinley.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 3.—Henry E. Putney, chairman of the committee on resolutions of the New Hampshire state convention has replied to the criticisms of Senator William E. Chandler, contained in a letter to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, in a letter to Senator Chandler. He says:

I have read your letter to Senator Lodge, in which you explain why you do not carry back to Washington the sheaves you came to reap. I am too well satisfied with the outcome of the state convention to wish to fight the battle over again.

You say the McKinley movement was organized at Manchester by me, the pretext for the outbreak being your denunciation of McKinley's friends, which was represented as an attack upon him personally. The McKinley movement grew spontaneously, all over the state. The credit for letting it loose and giving it sweep in the convention belongs to William E. Chandler, not to me.

Nearly every delegate went to Concord with the feeling that the party must not be held responsible for what you had said about Mr. McKinley in your interviews and letters. During the afternoon and evening at least a dozen resolutions were considered, ranging from one which indignantly repudiated your utterances, calling you by name, to one which instructed the delegates for McKinley.

The grandest demonstration of approval for a candidate in a New Hampshire convention for 30 years was when I read the resolution endorsing McKinley as "a pure and able statesman" and the equal of Reed in our favor.

"The mongrel platform" and the delegation are ludicrously incongruous. Not at all. They correspond to a nicety. They are both for Reed and McKinley; for Reed until his chances disappear; for McKinley ever after.

They do not much expect to see Reed nominated. First, because his rival is carrying pretty much all before him, and, secondly, because they know the Platts and Quays and Clarksons, who have seized his candidacy in order to hold New England delegates, have intended to betray him if the time ever came when they could take their retainers into another camp. This betrayal our convention has made impossible. Whenever Reed's cause is hopeless there will be eight good and true men from New Hampshire to vote for McKinley and the rest of New England will follow.

TO WRECK A STATE CAPITOL.

An Attempt at Jackson, Miss., to Secure a New Building.

JACKSON, Miss., April 3.—An attempt has been made to wreck the state capitol. While Secretary of State Poor was engaged in his office at the capitol, he heard a noise outside. Going to the window he saw several men digging at the wall between the door and a window. His appearance frightened away the men, and an investigation showed that two pieces of stone about two feet square had been removed from the wall. Had the work gone on a little longer a section of the wall about 4 by 20 feet would have fallen, thus wrecking the whole building.

Strenuous efforts were made during the recent session of the legislature to provide for a new building, but nothing was done in the matter, and it is thought some miscreants took this means of securing immediate action.

THE HOUSE REVERSED ITSELF.

Voiced Money For a Negro Institution, but Denied Money to Catholics.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The question of appropriating public money for private or sectarian institutions, which was debated for several days during the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill in connection with some appropriations for charitable institutions in Washington, has been again fought over for four hours in the house.

On the former occasion the contest was managed by Mr. Linton (Rep., Mich.), who is one of the pronounced A. P. A. members in congress. That contest was successful and by a vote of 143 to 135 the bill was recommitted.

The present bone of contention was the Howard university, a colored institution of Washington, for which an appropriation of $32,600 was inserted in the sundry civil bill on motion of Mr. Evans (Rep., Ky.). Mr. Hainer (Rep., Neb.), in whose temporary absence the amendment was adopted, rallied his forces against the appropriation on the ground that it was a private and sectarian institution, a school of theology being maintained by the university.

The appropriation was coupled with a proviso that no part of it should be used for religious teaching, but Mr. Hainer insisted that it could not be denied that it was in a sense a religious institution.

Mr. Cannon, Mr. Evans and other members, who supported the amendment, on the other hand, declared that they were opposed to appropriating public money for sectarian institutions, but argued that the proviso freed it from this criticism. Politics, of course, were injected liberally into the debate.

Mr. Sayres and Mr. Hepburn were especially prominent. Each insisted that his party was more particularly the friend of the black man. The house voted, 129 to 105, to retain the appropriation, thus, in a measure, reversing its action when the district bill was up. An analysis of the vote shows that 107 Republicans, 19 Democrats and 3 Populists voted for the amendment, and 5 Republicans, 47 Democrats and 3 Populists against it. The sundry civil bill, as amended, was passed.

STONE'S IMMIGRATION BILL.

Danford Reports It From the Committee to the House.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Representative Danford (O.) has reported to the house from the immigration committee the Stone bill, providing for the inspection of immigrants by United States consuls. The object of the measure, says the report, is to enforce existing laws and such laws as may hereafter be passed by congress restricting immigration.

Statistics show, says the report, that with a foreign population of 14.77 per cent, more than half of our white penitentiary convicts and more than half of the white inmates of our poorhouses are foreigners and prove that of the immigrants coming here during the past few years too many of them are deficient in morals and are incapable, physically, of self-support.

The bill does not add to the excluded list of immigrants. The committee does not agree with the chief objection urged against the measure, viz: that it cannot be enforced and argues that it is self-enforcing. A number of members of the committee are opposed to the bill, and it is probable a minority report will be made.

THE COUNTRY POSTOFFICE.

Making Them Branches of City Offices Opposed in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The postoffice appropriation bill served to bring out sharp discussion in the senate on the propriety of abolishing country postoffices and absorbing them as branches of city offices. Mr. Gorman opposed the plan as undemocratic. He stated that the Baltimore postoffice territory included two congressional districts, and this postoffice power was exerted toward influencing the selection of men for congress.

After a speech by Mr. Elkins advocating subsidies and other means of extending American commerce on the seas, the postoffice bill went over.

During the day Mr. George closed his speech, covering three days, in opposition to Mr. Dupont's claim to a seat. The resolution for investigating the bond sale again went over on Mr. Hill's objection.

College Republican Clubs.

CHICAGO, April 3.—The college league of Republican clubs opened here today. The leading candidates for the presidency are Stephen D. Dannon, Northwestern university; E. C. Lindley, Michigan university, and E. J. Hanning, also of Ann Arbor.

Total Vote In Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, April 3.—The total vote for each candidate for governor is as follows: Lippitt (Rep.), 28,448; Littlefield (Dem.), 17,170; Peabody (Pro.), 3,032; Thienert (Socialist), 1,224; Burlingame (Peoples), 718.

Will Be Short of Sugar.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 3.—Rudolph Spreckels, president of the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar company, in his annual report states that the world's product of sugar this year will probably be 1,000,000 tons short.

The Weather.

Generally fair; possibly light flurries of snow on the lakes; warmer this evening; brisk and high westerly winds.

THIRD WARD.

Third ward voters, don't trade under any circumstances. Do your duty and leave the result in the hands of God. Vote straight for Mrs. Jessie M. Whitehead and A. Murray Nickle. The reading of the Bible in our public schools means better city government, better boys and girls, better men and women; and, best of all, it means God's blessing on those who thus honor him. Vote straight. Don't cast a ballot for either John N. Taylor or Will L. Smith. Do your duty.

HERE THEY ARE!

Every candidate for the position of school director, either on the Republican or Prohibition tickets, with the exception of John N. Taylor, Will L. Smith and Mrs. Calhoun, is obligated to use all honorable and legal measures to have the Bible read in the public schools of East Liverpool each and every morning school is in session, by each and every teacher, to the pupils in attendance. This is a plain statement of fact, and we can and do vouch for the truth of the statement.

THE REST WITH GOD.

Do your duty. Vote for Bible advocates. Vote for opening of schools with a selection of God's word. Let injunctions be got out. Bible lovers will always conform with law. If the law says the Bible shall not be read in the public schools, Christians will obey that law until, by their ballots, they reverse the law. Do your duty. Vote for Bible candidates, ask God's blessing on the ballot, and leave the rest with the Ruler of heaven and earth. He makes no mistakes.

WOOLLEY.

This eloquent speaker took Sam Small's place at the rink yesterday afternoon, at the earnest request of the audience, Samuel having failed to show up, as per engagement. Woolley scored the men who believe that work against evil is not necessary, but who merely depend on the power of constant attendance at class and prayer meetings, and embraced in the same category the ministers of the gospel (?) who do all of their work in the pulpit and take no practical steps towards the closing up of the licensed saloons and kindred evils in the community. Woolley believes in clean and honest living and in clean and honest ballots. He is an actual disbeliever in what is falsely termed "necessary evils." He believes that the saloonkeeper is unfit to associate with and be a comrade of a man of clean and pure Christian life, and being unfit to thus associate with, he should be unfit to vote with on questions of vital principle, and that no clean or pure man dare ask God's blessing on the licensing of a thing which carries in its train sorrow, suffering, shame, seduction, bribery, cheating, political jobbery, insanity and murders innumerable, carrying down to drunkard's graves three hundred victims daily in this fair land. He claims that God's blessing cannot rest upon a city where God's word is dishonored in the public schools. His address was intensely interesting, and he was heartily applauded.

DON'T BE A DUPE.

Don't be a dupe. Don't let John N. Taylor and Will L. Smith make you believe that they are in favor of the Bible in the schools. They dismissed teachers because those teachers loved the Bible better than they did their situations. Will L. Smith ordered Superintendent Sanor to have certain teachers quit reading the Bible in their schools. Mrs. Jesse M. Whitehead, in open session of school board, asked Will L. Smith if he had not done so, and he replied: "Yes, I did! And the Bible shall not be read in these schools, save as a reference book." John N. Taylor coincided with Will L. Smith. Don't be duped. Vote for men and women who have pledged themselves that they will vote for and use all honorable and legal measures to have the Bible read in the public schools, each morning school is in session, by each and every teacher, to the pupils. Simply a selection from the Book of God, if that selection be but the ten commandments. Every candidate for the school board, on Republican and Prohibition tickets alike, have solemnly pledged themselves to this, with the exception of John N. Taylor, Will L. Smith and Mrs. Calhoun. This is absolute and positive, and the manager of the News Review can and will prove it to any doubter, no matter what any one may say.

The Pig's Grunt.
The continued grunting of the pig is of interest as revealing something of the conditions of life of his wild ancestors. A herd of swine scattered in the long grass or among the brackens of a European forest would soon lose sight of one another. But the grunts of each would still advertise his presence to his neighbors, and so the individual members of the herd would not lose touch with the main body. Then there are grunts and grunts. If one of my readers will imitate the ingenious Mr. Garner and take a photograph to the nearest pigsty, he might get material to make up a book on the language and grammar of the hog. However thick the jungle, the wild pig could, by taking note of the pitch and emphasis of the grunts to right and left of him, tell pretty much what his hidden colleagues were thinking about.—North American Review.

Disease Lurks In Basements.
Physicians aver that there are disease and death in stinking wooden blocks from old pavements in cellars for fuel. Several cases of typhoid and diphtheria have been traced to this cause. It is well to remember a single decaying cabbage or a bushel of turnips in the basement has poisoned the air of the entire house. Damp cellars alone are sources of disease. Millions of fungi grow in a night upon damp walls, ripen, and pass off in the air and often are the direct source of fatal epidemics. Fire that will dry the walls of the house is the very best of disinfectants.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

HOT REPLY TO CHANDLER.

Putney Says New Hampshire Will Eventually Line Up For McKinley.

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 3.—Henry E. Putney, chairman of the committee on resolutions of the New Hampshire state convention has replied to the criticisms of Senator William E. Chandler, contained in a letter to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, in a letter to Senator Chandler. He says:

I have read your letter to Senator Lodge, in which you explain why you do not carry back to Washington the sheaves you came to reap. I am too well satisfied with the outcome of the state convention to wish to fight the battle over again.

You say the McKinley movement was organized at Manchester by me, the pretext for the outbreak being your denunciation of McKinley's friends, which was represented as an attack upon him personally. The McKinley movement grew spontaneously, all over the state. The credit for letting it loose and giving it sweep in the convention belongs to William E. Chandler, not to me.

Nearly every delegate went to Concord with the feeling that the party must not be held responsible for what you had said about Mr. McKinley in your interviews and letters. During the afternoon and evening at least a dozen resolutions were considered, ranging from one which indignantly repudiated your utterances, calling you by name, to one which instructed the delegates for McKinley.

The greatest demonstration of approval for a candidate in a New Hampshire convention for 30 years was when I read the resolution endorsing McKinley as "a pure and able statesman" and the equal of Reed in our favor.

"The mongrel platform" and the delegation are ludicrously incongruous? Not at all. They correspond to a nicety. They are both for Reed and McKinley; for Reed until his chances disappear; for McKinley ever after.

They do not much expect to see Reed nominated. First, because his rival is carrying pretty much all before him, and, secondly, because they know the Platts and Quays and Clarksons, who have seized his candidacy in order to hold New England delegates, have intended to betray him if the time ever came when they could take their retainers into another camp. This betrayal our convention has made impossible. Whenever Reed's cause is hopeless there will be eight good and true men from New Hampshire to vote for McKinley and the rest of New England will follow.

TO WRECK A STATE CAPITOL.

An Attempt at Jackson, Miss., to Secure a New Building.

JACKSON, Miss., April 3.—An attempt has been made to wreck the state capitol. While Secretary of State Poor was engaged in his office at the capitol, he heard a noise outside. Going to the window he saw several men digging at the wall between the door and a window. His appearance frightened away the men, and an investigation showed that two pieces of stone about two feet square had been removed from the wall. Had the work gone on a little longer a section of the wall about 4 by 20 feet would have fallen, thus wrecking the whole building.

Strenuous efforts were made during the recent session of the legislature to provide for a new building, but nothing was done in the matter, and it is thought some miscreants took this means of securing immediate action.

THE HOUSE REVERSED ITSELF.

Voted Money For a Negro Institution, but Decried Money to Catholics.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The question of appropriating public money for private or sectarian institutions, which was debated for several days during the consideration of the District of Columbia appropriation bill in connection with some appropriations for charitable institutions in Washington, has been again fought over for four hours in the house. On the former occasion the contest was managed by Mr. Linton (Rep., Mich.), who is one of the pronounced A. P. A. members in congress. That contest was successful and by a vote of 143 to 135 the bill was recommitted.

The present bone of contention was the Howard university, a colored institution of Washington, for which an appropriation of $32,600 was inserted in the sundry civil bill on motion of Mr. Evans (Rep., Ky.). Mr. Hainer (Rep., Neb.), in whose temporary absence the amendment was adopted, rallied his forces against the appropriation on the ground that it was a private and sectarian institution, a school of theology being maintained by the university. The appropriation was coupled with a proviso that no part of it should be used for religious teaching, but Mr. Hainer insisted that it could not be denied that it was in a sense a religious institution.

Mr. Cannon, Mr. Evans and other members, who supported the amendment, on the other hand, declared that they were opposed to appropriating public money for sectarian institutions, but argued that the proviso freed it from this criticism. Politics, of course, were injected liberally into the debate. Mr. Sayres and Mr. Hepburn were especially prominent. Each insisted that his party was more particularly the friend of the black man. The house voted, 129 to 105, to retain the appropriation, thus, in a measure, reversing its action when the district bill was up. An analysis of the vote shows that 107 Republicans, 19 Democrats and 3 Populists voted for the amendment, and 55 Republican, 47 Democrats and 3 Populists against it. The sundry civil bill, as amended, was passed.

STONE'S IMMIGRATION BILL.

Danford Reports It From the Committee to the House.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Representative Danford (O.) has reported to the house from the immigration committee the Stone bill, providing for the inspection of immigrants by United States consuls. The object of the measure, says the report, is to enforce existing laws and such laws as may hereafter be passed by congress restricting immigration. Statistics show, says the report, that with a foreign population of 14.77 per cent, more than half of our white penitentiary convicts and more than half of the white inmates of our poorhouses are foreigners and prove that the immigrants coming here during the past few years too many of them are deficient in morals and are incapable, physically, of self-support.

The bill does not add to the excluded list of immigrants. The committee does not agree with the chief objection urged against the measure, viz: that it cannot be enforced and argues that it is self-enforcing. A number of members of the committee are opposed to the bill, and it is probable a minority report will be made.

THE COUNTRY POSTOFFICE.

Making Them Branches of City Offices Opposed In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The post appropriation bill served to bring sharp discussion in the senate on propriety of abolishing country post offices and absorbing them as branches of city offices. Mr. Gorman opposed the plan as undemocratic. He said that the Baltimore postoffice territory included two congressional districts and this postoffice power was exerted toward influencing the selection of men for congress.

After a speech by Mr. Elkins attacking subsidies and other means of tending American commerce on seas, the postoffice bill went over.

During the day Mr. George closed speech, covering three days, in opposition to Mr. Dupont's claim to a resolution for investigating bond sale again went over on Mr. H. objection.

SMITH-CRISP DEBATE.

Atlantans This Time Hear Silver Discussed.

CRISP'S WEAPON THE PARALLEL.

He Places Smith's Augusta Speech Alongside the Secretary's Speeches of '94 and a Letter of '90—Arguments of Both Contestants.

ATLANTA, April 3.—Six thousand people heard the second series of speeches between Secretary Hoke Smith and ex-Speaker Crisp in their joint debate on the money question in Georgia.

Secretary Smith declared that he opposed free coinage because he wanted to see genuine bimetalism obtain in this country. The advocates of free coinage, when they called themselves bimetalists, masqueraded under a title they did not deserve. He rapidly outlined the history of coinage to show that the commercial value of gold and silver had regulated the establishment of the legal ratio between the metals. The secretary denied that the act of 1873 had caused the fall in the price of silver. The law of supply and demand and the cheapening of the cost of mining had been potent factors in that depreciation. Then he said:

If the free coinage of silver would cause the 37 1/2 grains of silver in a silver dollar to be worth as much as the 23.22 grains of gold in a gold dollar, if it would give a real bimetalism, he would be in favor of it. But he felt ashamed of himself for presenting such a case, even hypothetically. History and common sense showed that it was impossible. He cited General Walker, Prof. Andrews, H. J. Balfour and other leading bimetalists as declaring that the experiment of free coinage without international agreement would be disastrous.

Instead of our currency being contracted since 1873, Secretary Smith declared it had been enormously increased. He denied the proposition that the currency could be increased by a system of coinage which disregarded the commercial ratio and brought about bimetalism, with the cheaper metal alone in circulation. We have a greater per capita of gold and silver in circulation now than ever before. Before 1873 only $60,000,000 silver dollars had been coined, exclusive of subsidiary coins. Since March, 1883, during this administration, which had been declared so hostile to silver, more than 7,000,000 silver had been coined. The hard times had begun with the Sherman act.

The fear of silver coinage had shaken public confidence and caused a contraction of the credit currency, which carried 95 per cent of the business of the country. In remodeling our currency system we should first fix a stable standard, and then retire the greenbacks, as recommended by Carlisle, give silver the right of way below $10 and allow state banks the right to issue notes. He would not undertake to present a complete plan, but the central idea must be to have every dollar of equal value. The bond issue was necessary to pay demand notes of the government. When it was remembered that Congress every year appropriated over $400,000,000 a bond debt of a little over $300,000,000 was not so formidable.

Secretary Smith concluded by painting the disaster that would result from the election of a congress and a president favorable to free silver coinage. Mr. Crisp several times referred to the fact that he was a candidate for the United States senate. He read a letter written by Secretary Smith in 1890 favoring free coinage, also extracts from two speeches in 1894 in which he proposed the single gold standard and the world over. "If you will give us free coinage," he declared, "and restore silver to liberty, then we'll talk with you about changing the ratio."

He said the trouble with Mr. Smith was that he confounded a bimetallic standard with a bimetallic circulation. It was not necessary for the preservation of a bimetallic standard for the two metals to circulate together. He admitted that in fixing the ratio in this country Jefferson had consulted the commercial ratio, but at that time silver was admitted to be free coinage and the world over. "If you will give us free coinage," he declared, "and restore silver to liberty, then we'll talk with you about changing the ratio."

Then he said: The demonization of silver caused the fall in prices. First, it reduced the money supply of the world. There have been hard times in this country of late. As soon as the people found out that silver had been demonized, they began to agitate for its restoration. This agitation has become a crime in the eyes of the men who have a fixed income which is increasing every day. The claim that the single gold standard is in favor of the laboring man is absurd. The advocates of free coinage do not want a dishonest dollar. They do not want one dollar to have more value than another. All this talk about cheap money is not connected by the men whose interest it is to keep money dear.

Mr. Crisp read from utterances of Secretary Carlisle in favor of the free coinage of silver, contrasting it with his position now.

He said that when you pass a law providing for free coinage you make the gold and silver of the world of equal value. The remedy of the gold standard and men was more bonds. It was "all for the bankers, none for us."

The first administration of Mr. Cleveland did pay off a large amount of bonds, but that did not alter the fact that his present administration, and he said it with shame, had imposed on the people a debt that would amount to $900,000,000 before it was paid.

Secretary Smith in his rejoinder declared that Mr. Crisp had dodged the proposition that you could not have a bimetallic currency without having the legal ratio the same as the commercial rate. He was willing to rest the whole case on that proposition.

Professor Harper, of Allegheny, the vocalist who has been engaged to fill the position made vacant by the demise of the late Prof. G. E. Gottschall, arrived here yesterday and will enter upon his new duties at once.

During the storm Wednesday night, lightning struck the electric wires of the light plant and burned out a number of transformers. A brilliant pyrotechnical display was witnessed at the power house for a few moments.

While a brawny blacksmith of Second street was returning home last night he was accosted by a man who made insulting remarks. Words followed, but the aggressor concluded it would not be wise to bandy words, and made his escape.

The Knowles, Taylor & Knowles china works will take on an increased number of employes next Monday. The factory has only been in partial operation for several months past. The outlook for trade has taken on a little brighter aspect.

Freight traffic on the Cleveland and Pittsburg has lessened considerably, the amount of traffic at present not equaling by one-half the amount previously done. A number of engines have been taken off the road, owing to the present slump in trade.

The rink will be comfortable tonight, no matter how cold the weather. Arrangements have been made accordingly. Those who fail to hear Mr. Woolley's lectures are missing a rare treat, as he is an orator of wonderful power and ability.

Samuel Veyon and family, formerly of this place, arrived here yesterday morning from Perth Amboy, N. J., where they have been located for the past two years. Mr. Veyon has secured a position in a tile works at Beaver Falls and will move to that place.

With proverbial regularity the advent of Easter is preceded with a sudden cold spell, as if to mar the anticipated pleasure of the sweet young maiden who wishes on that occasion to make her debut attired in warm weather costume in honor of the coming of spring and the revival of festivities.

The boys at the fire station are devoting their spare moments to catching mice, and a number of the little rodents have been captured. A device is being arranged in the shape of a large wheel of the Ferris order, which the mice will furnish with motive power, and will be a novelty for visitors to the station.

A party of young people from the West End went to Wellsville the other night with the intention of holding a dance at the home of an acquaintance of one of the members of the party. When they arrived at their destination they found everything dark and locked up, and they were forced to return home, a sadder and wiser crowd.

Origin of the Term "a Card."

Here is an extract from a letter of C. W. Ernst: "Boston has added many words to our mother tongue. 'A card' meaning a personal statement in newspapers, is a Boston term and dates back to early times, when men paid their compliments to objectionable crown ministers by printing a 'card' in the newspapers. The idea took immediately, and is still popular. When Robinson & Jones give their workmen a Christmas turkey each, the workmen are apt to put a 'card' in the local paper. This odd use of the word originated in Boston before the Revolution. Like all Boston inventions, it is convenient and 'real cute.'"—Boston Journal.

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

Its Development and Its Worth Excellently Set Forth.

The evolution of the daily press into more than a newspaper is forced by public expectation and custom. It is to a majority of people, at least on this continent, the sole library. It must satisfy a wider demand than that of the man who merely wants to know if stocks have risen since yesterday or whether Senegambia and Bolivia have gone to war overnight.

Matthew Arnold said, with a suspicion of tears in his voice, that if he lived something like 50 years longer than he expected to, he would probably be the only man in Great Britain who would be found reading books. He took an extreme and rather pessimistic view. As a matter of fact the press has been largely instrumental in encouraging the reading of good books, and while it engrosses the attention of many millions of readers to itself the fact of the increasing literary output of the country and the world refutes the notion that the public is losing its appetite for matters of enduring moment. Thoreau, the apostle of high thought and individualism, took no care of the changes that are recorded and forgotten every day because he lived apart from men and studied nature. He it was who cried: "Do not read the times. Read the eternities." But he lived in a day when the press was small, of little influence and servile. In his own state it supported the demands of the slaveholders, to his infinite disgust, and it was first and last a mere record of the day's doings.

But the press of this day is more than a record. It is a mirror of the world's thoughts and intentions, a critic, a judge, a guide, a friend. By many the news pages are glanced at, and attention is bestowed on the contents that exhibit deliberation, research and scholarship. There is as good writing and as purposeful and helpful writing in the daily papers today as there was in the magazines of the first half of our century before. Moreover, it is writing to some purpose. It is not for mere display of style, but to accomplish the betterment of governments, of society, of institutions and arts, to stimulate effort in right causes, to encourage industry, thrift, honor and content. The condition of the world in our century without the daily press is unthinkable.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"That's so," said the pipe seller. "You may get a pipe with a genuine cut amber mouthpiece in some stores in New York, but if you look up its record you will find it was made eight or ten years ago and has been in stock. This composition is used today in expensive meerschaums as well as in briar woods."—New York Sun.

SMITH-CRISP DEBATE.

Atlantans This Time Hear Silver Discussed.

CRISP'S WEAPON THE PARALLEL.

He Places Smith's Augusta Speech Alongside the Secretary's Speeches of '94 and a Letter of '90—Arguments of Both Contestants.

ATLANTA, April 3.—Six thousand people heard the second series of speeches between Secretary Hoke Smith and ex-Speaker Crisp in their joint debate on the money question in Georgia.

Secretary Smith declared that he opposed free coinage because he wanted to see genuine bimetalism obtain in this country. The advocates of free coinage, when they called themselves bimetalists, masqueraded under a title they did not deserve. He rapidly outlined the history of coinage to show that the commercial value of gold and silver had regulated the establishment of the legal ratio between the metals. The secretary denied that the act of 1873 had caused the fall in the price of silver. The law of supply and demand and the cheapening of the cost of mining had been potent factors in that depreciation. Then he said:

If the free coinage of silver would cause the $214 grains of silver in a silver dollar to be worth as much as the 23.23 grains of gold in a gold dollar, if it would give a real bimetalism, he would be in favor of it. But he felt ashamed of himself for presenting such a case, even hypothetically. History and common sense showed that it was impossible. He cited General Walker, Prof. Andrews, H. J. Balfour and other leading bimetalists as declaring that the experiment of free coinage without international agreement would be disastrous.

Instead of our currency being contracted since 1873 Secretary Smith declared it had been enormously increased. He denied the proposition that the currency could be increased by a system of coinage which disregarded the commercial ratio and brought about monometallism, with the cheaper metal alone in circulation. We have a greater per capita of gold and silver in circulation now than ever before. Before 1873 only $3,000,000 silver dollars had been coined, exclusive of subsidiary coins. Since March, 1893, during this administration, which had been declared so hostile to silver, more than 7,000,000 silver had been coined. The hard times had begun with the Sherman act.

The fear of free silver coinage had shaken public confidence and caused a contraction of the credit currency, which carried 95 per cent of the business of the country. In remodeling our currency system we should first fix a stable standard, then retire the greenbacks, as recommended by Carlisle, give silver the right of way below $1 and allow state banks the right to issue notes. He would not undertake to present a complete plan, but the central idea must be to have every dollar of equal value. The bond issue was necessary to pay demand notes of the government. When it was remembered that Congress every year appropriated over $100,000,000, a bond debt of a little over $200,000,000 was not so formidable.

Secretary Smith concluded by painting the disaster that would result from the election of a congress and a president favorable to free silver coinage.

Mr. Crisp several times referred to the fact that he was a candidate for the United States senate. He read a letter written by Secretary Smith in 1890 favoring free coinage, also extracts from two speeches in 1894 in which he opposed the single gold standard and the one in Augusta, printed in these dispatches a few days ago, favoring the single standard.

He said the trouble with Mr. Smith was that he confounded a bimetallic standard with a bimetallic circulation. It was not necessary for the preservation of a bimetallic standard for the two metals to circulate together. He admitted that in fixing the ratio in this country Jefferson had consulted the commercial ratio, but at that time silver was admitted to be free coinage the world over. "If you will give us free coinage," he declared, "and restore us silver to liberty, then we'll talk with you about changing the ratio."

Then he said: The demonization of silver caused the fall in prices. First, it reduced the money supply of the world. There have been hard times in this country of late. As soon as the people found out that silver had been demonized, they began to agitate for its restoration. This agitation has become a crime in the eyes of the men who have a fixed income which is increasing every day. The claim that the single gold standard is in favor of the laboring man is absurd. The advocates of free coinage do not want a dishonest dollar. They do not want one dollar to have more value than another. All this talk about cheap money is not connected by the men whose interest it is to keep money dear.

Mr. Crisp read from utterances of Secretary Carlisle in favor of the free coinage of silver, contrasting it with his position now.

He said that when you pass a law providing for free coinage you make the gold and silver of the world of equal value. The remedy of the gold standard men was more bonds. It was "call for the bankers, none for us."

The first administration of Mr. Cleveland did pay off a large amount of bonds, but that did not alter the fact that his present administration, and he said it with shame, had imposed on the people a debt that would amount to $100,000,000 before it was paid.

Secretary Smith in his rejoinder declared that Mr. Crisp had dodged the proposition that you could not have a bimetallic currency without having the legal ratio the same as the commercial rate. He was willing to rest the whole case on that proposition.

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER.

Its Development and Its Worth Excellent Set Forth.

The evolution of the daily press into more than a newspaper is forced by public expectation and custom. It is to a majority of people, at least on this continent, the sole library. It must satisfy a wider demand than that of the man who merely wants to know if stocks have risen since yesterday or whether Senegambia and Bolivia have gone to war overnight.

Matthew Arnold said, with a suspicion of tears in his voice, that if he lived something like 50 years longer than he expected to, he would probably be the only man in Great Britain who would be found reading books. He took an extreme and rather pessimistic view. As a matter of fact the press has been largely instrumental in encouraging the reading of good books, and while it engrosses the attention of many millions of readers to itself the fact of the increasing literary output of the country and the world refutes the notion that the public is losing its appetite for matters of enduring moment. Thoreau, the apostle of high thought and individualism, took no care of the changes that are recorded and forgotten every day because he lived apart from men and studied nature. He it was who cried: "Do not read the times. Read the eternities." But he lived in a day when the press was small, of little influence and servile. In his own state it supported the demands of the slaveholders, to his infinite disgust, and it was first and last a mere record of the day's doings.

But the press of this day is more than a record. It is a mirror of the world's thoughts and intentions, a critic, a judge, a guide, a friend. By many the news pages are glanced at, and attention is bestowed on the contents that exhibit deliberation, research and scholarship. There is as good writing and as purposeful and helpful writing in the daily papers today as there was in the magazines of the first half of our century before. Moreover, it is writing to some purpose. It is not for mere display of style, but to accomplish the betterment of governments, of society, of institutions and arts, to encourage industry, right causes, to stimulate effort in the world of our century without the daily press is unthinkable.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"That's so," said the pipe seller. "You may get a pipe with a genuine cut amber mouthpiece in some stores in New York, but if you look up its record you will find it was made eight or ten years ago and has been in stock. This composition is used today in expensive meerschaums as well as in briar woods."

WERE DISAPPOINTED.

But the Local Mechanics Were Equal to the Emergency.

A large delegation from Diamond council, Junior Mechanics, of Wells-ville, called on Pride of the East council at their rooms last night. The visitors came to hear Professor McDonald lecture on the Bible-in-the-schools question, not having been notified that he was unable to fill his engagement. They were disappointed, but the local council were equal to the emergency and provided a neat entertainment for their guests in the shape of recitals, solos, etc. After the closing exercises the party wended their way to a Sixth street restaurant, where they partook of a palatable repast.
Professor McDonald will speak at the anniversary of the local order to be held in a few weeks.

BEST ON THE OHIO.

That is What the Inspectors Say of the Ollie Neville.

Government Ferryboat Inspectors
Reuben N. Thomas and Charles H.
Clark, of the custom house at Wheeling, inspected the local ferryboat, Ollie Neville, yesterday afternoon. A complete inspection of the craft was made and a satisfactory report rendered. A pressure of 140 pounds of steam can be used with safety, and at a 200 pound pressure the inspectors thought there was no danger.

Engineer John Martin came in for a share of praise for the excellent condition that the engine and machinery is kept in. The Ollie Neville, the inspectors say, is the best ferryboat plying on the Ohio river and Captain Pusey is justly proud of his craft.

EAST LIVERPOOL RECOGNIZED.

Delegates of the State Convention Were Well Treated in Cleveland.

The delegates from this city to the state convention of the Daughters of Liberty held at Cleveland, arrived home yesterday. East Liverpool was honored by receiving official recognition. Mr.
Sellers was elected as a representative to the national meeting to be held at Manchester, N. H., in August, 1896. and Mrs. Sellers was made guide to the state convention which will be held in Tiffin next March.

Standing committees were not appointed, and it is probable that this city will be represented on some of them.

A READING ROOM.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society
Have a Library.

The energetic and wide-awake ladies of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church have established a library, and already a large number of books have been contributed. A book case has been placed in the room and will be filled with a select class of missionary literature, which will be of an educational and edifying character, and serve to further the excellent work in which they are engaged. Each member is expected to donate one or more books, and the library will be one to which they can point to with pride.

BONES FRACTURED.

An Employee of the Knowles China Works
Meets With an Accident.

Joseph McCoy, a kiln drawer at the china works, met with an accident at that pottery Wednesday afternoon. A large draw bench was being moved and in some manner toppled over and pinioned McCoy to the floor.

He was soon extricated from his painful position and conveyed to his home on Ravine street. A physician was called, who found that several bones in the leg were fractured. The injured limb was bandaged and the sufferer made comfortable. McCoy will be unable to work for an indefinite period.

BASE BALL.

The Columbus of East End Are After a Ground.

At a recent meeting of the Columbia base ball team of East End a committee was appointed to look after a ground. They have an option on the race track, but are undecided as to whether they will close negotiations.
The team is composed of very desirable material, and they expect to cut a very important figure in baseball circles the coming season. Already a number of challenges have been received, but just when they will play their first game is not given out.

Rehabites.

Since the institution of the order of Rehabites here the lodge has grown lation of cities having lodges. The number of additional members recently taken in has been almost phenomenal. The present membership now is over 600. Next Monday night 40 applicants will be initiated. The rules will be suspended and the entire evening devoted to this work.

LAKE TRADE OPENED.

Navigation Resumed On the Lakes After Five Months Idleness.

Lake trade has again opened and will harbor a good channel will be opened by the dredge boats in a few days.

Navigation resumed on Lake Michigan on Monday, although there is much ice in the straits. Much ware that cannot be shipped by rail will be handled by the steamers and the outlook for a big lake trade is bright.

Many Grandmothers.

A daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Clemmings, 145 Second street, this morning, who has five grandmothers alive and well, a very unusual occurrence, and perhaps the only child in the city who can point to that number of genealogical ancestors. She has a grandmother, great grandmother and great great grandmother on the father's side, and a grandmother and great grandmother on the mother's side.

ions now to be seen on our have a desire to have their

A Menace to Safety.

The Buckeye State, of Lisbon, says:
"The Fifth street rink, of East Liverpool, narrowly escaped destruction by fire a few evenings since. Had the fire left but a monument of charred timbers the people of East Liverpool would have been as sincerely congratulated as the Lisbon public are upon the burning of the old rookery called by courtesy 'Grand Army hall.'"
The one is just as evident a menace to public safety as was the other."

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth company, Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured.
He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me; he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. Fifty cent gist."

colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's colic, many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. Twenty-five and 50 cent

Probably Murdered Four People.

ROCK ISLAND, Ills., April 3.—The finding of the decomposed body of John Louders under a pile of rubbish on the belief that Henry F. Bastian was a human fiend and that he committed suicide March 13 last because he feared his criminal record was about to be laid bare. Four men have disappeared from his place.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., April 3.—A fire here

STEEL POOL COMPLETE.

Details Finished at the New York Meeting.

GEORGE T. OLIVER'S STATEMENT.

The Pittsburgh Gives the Result of the Conference—Tells Why the Combine
Was a Necessity—Andrew Carnegie
Don't Like the Idea.

NEW YORK, April 3.—George T.
Oliver, president of the Hainesworth Steel company of Pittsburgh, has made the following statement regarding the meeting of the Bessemer steel manufacturers at the Hotel Savoy in this city:

With the exception of a few weeks last fall the manufacturers of Bessemer steel in the United States have been conducting a losing business for the past three years. This has resulted more than the growing influence of the middlemen than on account of competition between the manufacturers themselves.

With the purpose in view of eliminating such influences and of bringing a close relation between buyer and seller, the steel men met in session and have succeeded in agreeing among themselves in the future all negotiations shall be confined strictly to the producer on the one hand and the consumer on the other.
It is not intended to restrict production except so far as such restriction will be brought about by doing away with such fictitious transactions and the confining of business to the actual wants of the country. In many instances a middleman will purchase steel in large quantities from a manufacturer for which he has no customer in sight. When the time of delivery arrives the manufacturer will naturally expect his customer to furnish specifications for the steel. His only course is to dump it on the market at any price it will bring. One such transaction has in many instances resulted in the demoralization of the entire market and even the business for the rest of the sesson. We hope through the influence of this organization and by frequent meetings and interchange of views to do away with this evil. We think we can do so.

This organization does not include all the manufacturers of Bessemer steel, but is such a unanimous action necessary. The great firm of Schoenberger & Co. of Pittsburg is not represented at all, neither is the Illinois Steel company of Chicago bound by the action of our members, but there is no doubt in our mind that both of these large interests will act in harmony with other manufacturers, as neither has the reputation of being a disturber in the market.

It is not our intention to bring about any undue advance in the price of steel.
The price which has been agreed upon for the present, $20 per ton, is fully justified by the strong advance which has taken place within the past two weeks in pigiron and iron ore, and it is really doubtful whether, in view of the existing conditions, manufacturers can make any profit at that price.

Mr. Oliver admitted, with some reluctance, that another meeting would be held this afternoon. He intimated that the organization would probably be perfected at this meeting.

The following are represented at the conference: Carnegie Steel company, John G. A. Leishman, president; Hain-sworth Steel company, Pittsburgh; George T. Oliver, president; Jones and Laughlin company, Pittsburgh; Willis
L. King, general manager; Bethlehem

CARNEGIE ON THE COMBINE.

The Steel King Don't Think It Will Amount to Much.

NEW YORK, April 3.—Andrew Carnegie, who has just returned from Florida, said to a reporter that he had not heard of the proposed combination of steel manufacturers.

"I don't think it will amount to much," continued Mr. Carnegie. "In times of depression and stagnation people are disposed to get together and agree to suspend the law of competition.
But no permanent results follow. They never believe in combinations. They are only for weak people. They give a little temporary strength to these weak persons, but they are not good for the strong and healthy."

"What is your opinion of the general outlook in business?"

"Well, business is not good," he replied. "A general depression prevails, and I think that we must get the presidential election over before we can hope for general prosperity. After that I hope that the currency system of the government will be placed upon a proper financial basis, so that we will get rid of the agitation for a change of standard."

U. S. EXPLORERS LOST.

Eight Break Through the Ice Going Up the Rainey River.

CROOKSTON, Minn., April 3.—Letters received here from Rainey River on the Canadian boundary report the death of Rainey river of Colonel A. F. Naff, a deputy United States marshal, and their entire party of explorers, in all probably eight men.

They were on their way to investigate reports of the timber stealing by Canadians along the boundary and tributary waters and were ascending the Rainey by sleighs. They are reported to have broken through the ice and to have been lost. Information is very meager and the only name given is that of Naff, who is a special agent of the government, well known over all the western United States.

WERE DISAPPOINTED,

But the Local Mechanics Were Equal to the Emergency.

A large delegation from Diamond council, Junior Mechanics, of Wells-ville, called on the Diamond council at their rooms last night. The visitors came to hear Professor McDonald lecture on the Bible-in-the-schools question, not having been notified that he was unable to fill his engagement. They were disappointed, but the local council were equal to the emergency and provided a neat entertainment for their guests in the shape of recitals, solos, etc. After the closing exercises the party wended their way to a Sixth street restaurant, where they partook of a palatable repast. Professor McDonald will speak at the anniversary of the local order to be held in a few weeks.

BEST ON THE OHIO.

That is What the Inspectors Say of the Ollie Neville.

Government Ferryboat Inspectors Reuben N. Thomas and Charles H. Clark, of the custom house at Wheeling, inspected the local ferryboat, Ollie Neville, yesterday afternoon. A complete inspection of the craft was made and a satisfactory report rendered. A pressure of 140 pounds of steam can be used with safety, and at a 200 pound pressure the inspectors thought there was no danger.

Engineer John Martin came in for a share of praise for the excellent condition that the engine and machinery is kept in. The Ollie Neville, the inspectors say, is the best ferryboat plying on the Ohio river and Captain Pusey is justly proud of his craft.

EAST LIVERPOOL RECOGNIZED.

Delegates of the State Convention Were Well Treated in Cleveland.

The delegates from this city to the state convention of the Daughters of Liberty held at Cleveland, arrived home yesterday. East Liverpool was honored by receiving official recognition. Mr. Sellers was elected as a representative to the national meeting to be held at Manchester, N. H., in August, 1896. Mrs. Sellers was made guide to the state convention which will be held in Tiffin next March.

Standing committees were not appointed, and it is probable that this city will be represented on some of them.

A READING ROOM.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society Have a Library.

The energetic and wide-awake ladies of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church have established a library, and already a large number of books have been contributed. A book case has been placed in the room and will be filled with a select class of missionary literature, which will be of an educational and edifying character, and serve to further the excellent work in which they are engaged. Each member is expected to donate one or more books, and the library will be one to which they can point to with pride.

BONES FRACTURED.

An Employee of the Knowles China Works Meets With an Accident.

Joseph McCoy, a kiln drawer at the china works, met with an accident at that pottery Wednesday afternoon. A large draw bench was being moved and in some manner toppled over and pinned McCoy to the floor.

He was soon extricated from his painful position and conveyed to his home on Ravine street. A physician was called, who found that several bones in the leg were fractured. The injured limb was bandaged and the sufferer made comfortable. McCoy will be unable to work for an indefinite period.

BASE BALL.

The Columbus of East End Are After a Ground.

At a recent meeting of the Columbus base ball team of East End a committee was appointed to look after a ground. They have an option on the race track, but are undecided as to whether they will close negotiations. The team is composed of very desirable material, and they expect to cut a very important figure in baseball circles the coming season. Already a number of challenges have been received, but just when they will play their first game is not given out.

A THRIVING ORDER.

Many New Members To Be Added to the Rechabites.

Since the institution of the order of Rechabites here the lodge has grown steadily in membership, and is now in a flourishing condition, ranking first in numbers in proportion to the population of cities having lodges. The number of additional members recently taken in has been almost phenomenal. The present membership now is over 600. Next Monday night 40 applicants will be initiated. The rules will be suspended and the entire evening devoted to this work.

LAKE TRADE OPENED.

Navigation Resumed On the Lakes After Five Months Idleness.

Lake trade has again opened and will be a boon to our local manufacturers. Boats are now plying between Cleveland and Detroit, and at Ashtabula harbor a good channel will be opened by the dredge boats in a few days. Navigation resumed on Lake Michigan on Monday, although there is much ice in the straits. Much ware that cannot be shipped by rail will be handled by the steamers and the outlook for a big lake trade is bright.

Many Grandmothers.

A daughter arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Clemmings, 145 Second street, this morning, who has five grandmothers alive and well, a very unusual occurrence, and perhaps the only child in the city who can point to that number of genealogical ancestors. She has a grandmother, great grandmother and great great grandmother on the father's side, and a grandmother and great grandmother on the mother's side.

EASTER FASHIONS.

There are some beautiful fashions now to be seen on our streets. Ladies will naturally have a desire to have their photos taken, in order to send to friends and acquaintances. The finest cabinets in the city cost you but $1.50 per dozen at MacKenzie's, First National building. Take the elevator and step into the studio.

A Menace to Safety.

The Buckeye State, of Lisbon, says: "The Fifth street rink, of East Liverpool, narrowly escaped destruction by fire a few evenings since. Had the fire left but a monument of charred timbers the people of East Liverpool would have been as sincerely congratulated as the Lisbon public are upon the burning of the old rookery called by courtesy 'Grand Army hall.' The one is just as evident a menace to public safety as was the other."

Those who never read the advertisements in their newspapers miss more than they presume. Jonathan Kenison, of Bolan, Worth company, Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of Ft. Madison had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words: "It cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism. Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me; he got a bottle and it cured them up in a week. Much Improved.

The many friends of Marshal Wyman will be glad to hear that he is much improved, and his attending physician, Doctor Gardner, hopes to have him on the streets in a few days.

It will be an agreeable surprise to persons subject to attacks of bilious colic to learn that prompt relief may be had by taking Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhea remedy. In many instances the attack may be prevented by taking this remedy as soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear. Twenty-five and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. H. Bulger, druggist.

Probably Murdered Four People.

ROCK ISLAND, Ills., April 3.—The findings of the decomposed body of John Louder under a pile of rubbish on the Bastian farm strengthens the general belief that Henry F. Bastian was a human fiend and that he committed suicide March 13 last because he feared his criminal record was about to be laid bare. Four men have disappeared from his place.

STEEL POOL COMPLETE.

Details Finished at the New York Meeting.

GEORGE T. OLIVER'S STATEMENT.

The Pittsburgh Gives the Result of the Conference—Tells Why the Combine Was a Necessity—Andrew Carnegie Don't Like the Idea.

New York, April 3.—George T. Oliver, president of the Hainesworth Steel company of Pittsburgh, has made the following statement regarding the meeting of the Bessemer steel manufacturers at the Hotel Savoy in this city: With the exception of a few weeks last fall the manufacturers of Bessemer steel in the United States have been conducting a losing business for the past three years. This steel country is now facing the growing influence of the middlemen than on account of competition between the manufacturers themselves.

With the purpose in view of eliminating such influences and of bringing about closer relations between buyer and seller, the steel men met in session and have succeeded in agreeing among themselves that in the future all negotiations shall be confined strictly to the producer on the one hand and the consumer on the other. It is not intended to restrict production except so far as such restriction will be brought about by doing away with such fictitious transactions and the confining of business to the actual wants of the country. In many instances a middleman will purchase steel in large quantities from a manufacturer for which he has no customer in sight. When the time of delivery arrives, the manufacturer will naturally expect his customer to furnish specifications for the steel. His only course is to dump it on the market at any price it will bring. One such transaction has in many instances resulted in the domination of the entire market and even the business for the rest of the season. We hope through the influence of this organization and by frequent meetings and interchange of views to do away with this evil. We think we can do so.

This organization does not include all the manufacturers of Bessemer steel, nor is such unanimous action necessary. The great firm of Schoenberger & Co. of Pittsburgh is not represented at all, neither is the Illinois Steel company of Chicago, bound by the action of our members, but there is no doubt in our mind that both of these large interests will act in harmony with other manufacturers, as neither has the reputation of being a disturber in the market.

It is not our intention to bring about any undue advance in the price of steel. The price which has been agreed upon for the present, $20 per ton, is fully justified by the strong advance which has taken place within the past two weeks in pig iron and iron ore, and it is really doubtful whether, in view of the existing conditions, manufacturers can make any profit at that price.

Mr. Oliver admitted, with some reluctance, that another meeting would be held this afternoon. He intimated that the organization would probably be perfected at this meeting.

The following are represented at the conference: Carnegie Steel company, John G. A. Leishman, president; Hainesworth Steel company, Pittsburgh, George T. Oliver, president; Jones and Laughlin company, Pittsburgh, Willis L. King, general manager; Bethlehem Iron company, South Bethlehem, Pa., J. B. McElvaine; Camfrisa Iron company, Johnstown, Pa., J. D. Stackhouse; Schoenberger & Co., Steel company, Pittsburgh, General T. H. Fitzhugh; Johnson company, Cleveland, works at Lorain, D. Tom Johnson; King, Gilbert and Warner company, Columbus, R. M. Gilbert; Illinois Steel company, Chicago; Lackawanna Iron and Steel company, Scranton; Pennsylvania Steel company, Steelton, Pa.; Cleveland Rolling Mill company, Cleveland; Otis Steel company, Cleveland; Ohio Steel company, Youngstown, O.; Bellaire Steel company, Bellaire, O.; Union Steel company, Andover, N. J.; Shenandoah Valley Steel company, New Castle, Pa.; Maryland Steel company, Sparrow's Point, Md.; Wheeling Steel and Iron company, Wheeling, and Ashland Steel company, Ashland, Ky.

CARNegie ON THE COMBINE.

The Steel King Don't Think It Will Amount to Much.

New York, April 3.—Andrew Carnegie, who has just returned from Florida, said to a reporter that he had not heard of the proposed combination of steel manufacturers.

"I don't think it will amount to much," continued Mr. Carnegie. "In times of depression and stagnation people are disposed to get together and agree to suspend the law of competition. But no permanent results follow. I never believe in combinations. They are only for weak people. They give a little temporary strength to these weak persons, but they are not good for the strong and healthy."

"What is your opinion of the general outlook in business?"

"Well, business is not good," he replied. "A general depression prevails, and I think that we must get the presidential election over before we can hope for general prosperity. After that I hope that the currency system of the government will be placed upon a proper financial basis, so that we will get rid of the agitation for a change of standard."

U. S. EXPLORERS LOST.

Eight Break Through the Ice Going Up the Rainey River.

CROOKSTON, Minn., April 3.—Letters received here from Rainey River on the Canadian boundary report the death on Rainey river of Colonel A. F. Naff, a deputy United States marshal, and their entire party of explorers, in all probably eight men.

They were on their way to investigate reports of the timber stealing by Canadians along the boundary and tributary waters and were ascending the Rainey by sleighs. They are reported to have broken through the ice and to have been lost. Information is very meager and the only name given is that of Naff, who is a special agent of the government, well known over all the western United States.

LITTLE SHOW FOR TERRITORIES.

A Democrat and Republican Argue Against Their Admission.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—The meeting of the house committee on territories was devoted to discussion of the Arizona and New Mexico statehood bills and the committee failed to arrive at a voting stage. Delegates Murphy and Catron asserted that the opponents of statehood in the committee were doing the talking merely as a filibustering move, and consequently the meeting was a rather warm one.

Mr. Taft (Rep., O.), during the discussion, declared that congress could not blind its eyes to the fact that the admission of the two territories would add four votes for free silver to the senate. He argued that it was not fair that the existing status of the Union should be changed in the midst of a great controversy like the financial question.

Mr. Owens (Dem., Ky.), said that the territories whose area was greater than that of New England and population less than that required for a congressional district were unfit for statehood.
